The image shows a screenshot of a Slack workspace on the left and a Twitter thread on the right. The Slack interface is titled 'Kopi.JS' and shows a list of channels including '# juniordevsg' and '# kopitiam', and a list of direct messages including 'slackbot', 'huijing (you)', 'cheeaun', 'cliener', 'jacob', 'meowlivia_', 'sheldon', 'shiwuen', 'valentine', and 'yishu'. The Twitter thread is for the hashtag '#kopitiam' and features a tweet from 'huijing' at 10:21 AM saying 'heyo...just wanted to say thanks for everyone (@drenmi, @heyitsmarcucu, @ongmin, @cliener and anyone else i missed) for chiming in with your opinions on the state of the web in sporeland, the webinar is like midnight tonight (and i think will eventually will be released publicly), so can still pitch in more opinions if u like'. Below it is a tweet from 'drenmi' at 10:28 AM asking 'Purely anecdotally, it seems I have much more trouble getting Google Material icons (using the icon font) to neatly align with text than I have with FontAwesome. 🤔 Anyone else having the same experience?'. The bottom of the Twitter thread shows a text input field with the placeholder 'Message #kopitiam'.

The screenshot shows the Data.gov.sg website interface. At the top, there is a browser window with the URL <https://data.gov.sg>. The website header includes the logo and navigation links for "Blog", "Developers", and "Data Request". The main banner features a night cityscape with the text "Data.gov.sg" and a search bar containing "Search Singapore's Public Data". Below the search bar is a "View All Datasets" button. A horizontal menu contains icons for various sectors: Economy, Education, Environment, Finance, Health, Infrastructure, Society, Technology, and Transport. The "Singapore at a glance" section displays two charts: a bar chart titled "Singapore Residents By Ethnic Group, End June, Annual (2018)" and a pie chart titled "Domestic Exports By Area (2014)".

Internet Content Regulation

LAST UPDATED 03 NOVEMBER 2017

PRINT SHARE

Singapore has a three-prong approach to Internet content regulation.

Firstly, a light-touch class license scheme administered by the IMDA provides minimum standards to safeguard values and promote healthy growth. This is an automatic licensing scheme that requires Internet Service Providers and content providers to comply with an Internet Code of Practice. Secondly, industry self-regulation is encouraged. Thirdly, there is an active public education programme to promote parental supervision over children's access to the Internet.

More information on Internet Content regulation can be found here.
